KEY RISKS

6. WHAT ARE THE KEY RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH THIS PRODUCT?

Currency risk – Investing globally means assets are denominated in currencies other than Malaysian Ringgit. Hence, fluctuations in the exchange rates of these foreign currencies may have an impact on a fund's income and asset valuations. This risk applies to the underlying investments of the Target Fund where adverse fluctuations in exchange rates result in capital losses to the Target Fund, which will also lead to losses to the Fund. This risk is not within the control of the Manager of the Fund but dependent on the risk management strategy of the Investment Manager of the Target Fund. Risk is managed by investing in a fund (the Target Fund) that is managed by an investment manager with experience in managing investments denominated in foreign currencies. Notwithstanding the above, the newly introduced Class MYR BOS features currency hedging, where the Manager will passively (regardless of currency outlook, and on best-effort basis) utilize forward contracts to reduce the impact of exchange rate changes between MYR (the currency denomination of Class MYR BOS) and USD (the currency denomination of the Target Fund).

Country and/or foreign securities risk – This refers to the risks of investing in foreign markets, in particular those of emerging markets within the Asian regions. Asian Markets may be subject to higher than usual risks of political changes, government regulations, social instability or diplomatic developments which could adversely affect the economies of the relevant countries and thus the value of investments in those countries. Investment in some Asian and/or emerging Asia often involve a greater degree of risk due to the nature of such markets which do not fully develop services such as custodian and settlement services which are often taken for granted in more developed markets. Any of these occurrence of negative events could result in capital loss to the Target Fund, which in turn result in loss to the Fund. This risk is not within the control of the investment manager of the Fund but is dependent on the investment and risk management strategy of the investment manager of the Target Fund. Risk is reduced by investing in a fund (the Target Fund) that is managed by investment managers with experience managing equities and debt securities portfolios.

Liquidity risk – This refers to the risk of the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the Fund holds assets that are illiquid or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the Fund will be negatively affected where such assets will be sold at unfavourable prices, which may subsequently lead to investment loss to its unitholders. The Manager may (in consultation with the Trustee) seek temporary financing to meet redemption request, whilst acting in the best interests of unitholders before considering the suspension of dealing in the Fund's units.

Target fund risk – This is a risk particular to a fund which feeds into a single target fund. This risk occurs when there is an underperformance or a non-performance due to less optimal investment management at the Target Fund level, in terms of securities selection and market, sector and economic analysis; the Target Fund is temporarily or no longer* aligned with the investment objective and strategies of the Fund; or there is an operational and administrative glitch at the Target Fund level. This risk is mitigated by selecting a fund (Target Fund) which is managed by investment managers that have experience in managing equities and debt securities portfolios. The Target Fund is also subject to risk of changes in regulatory environment that would render the Fund to be no longer operational in the way originally intended.

* There is also a risk that the Manager of the Fund (a feeder fund) is unable to find a suitable target fund to replace the Target Fund.

Target Fund's risk exposure – As a feeder fund, the Fund is indirectly exposed to the risks associated with the Target Fund's underlying investments, including market risk, derivatives risk, covered call writing risk, counterparty risk, issuer risk, currency risk, credit risk, default risk, interest rate risk, mismanagement by debt issuers risk, political risk, liquidity risk, repatriation risk, Asian and/or emerging market risk, regulatory risk, and as well as risks associated with investments in eligible China A-Shares through the Shanghai-Hong Kong and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect (collectively, the "Stock Connect").

The investment manager exercises diligence in minimising the above risks to the Fund. However, it is not always possible to cover all investment risks despite best efforts as financial markets can be highly unpredictable. Investors are encouraged to consult their advisers such as financial/tax consultants, lawyers or bankers for a further understanding of these risks.

Note: If your investments are made through an institutional unit trust scheme adviser ("IUTA") which adopts the nominee system of ownership, you would not be deemed to be a Unit Holder under the deed of the Fund and as a result, you may not exercise all the rights ordinarily conferred to a Unit Holder (e.g. the right to call for Unit Holders' meetings and the right to vote at a Unit Holders' meeting). Accordingly, the Manager will only recognise the IUTA as a Unit Holder and the IUTA shall be entitled to all the rights conferred to it under the deed of the Fund.
